

Pinjing He
SHORT PROFESSIONAL INFO

Pinjing He, BS and MS in Chemical Engineering and Ph.D. in Environmental Engineering, is full professor of College of Environmental Science & Engineering, Head of Institute of Waste Treatment & Reclamation at Tongji University, and Director of the Centre for the Technology Research and Training on Household Waste in Towns & Rural Area committed by Ministry of Housing and Urban-Rural Development of PR.China. He is an associate editor of the Waste Management journal, vice president of International Waste Working Group (IWWG), co-chairman of International Waste Management and Landfill Symposium, and involved in International Advisory Boards of several international and domestic journals and conferences.

Pinjing is author of over 500 articles and chapters in peer reviewed journals, conferences and books. His research activity includes fundamental and applied aspects of waste management, with focus on biological, thermal treatment systems and sustainable landfilling of waste.